

セカイの日本語

2022年カナダ日本語教育振興会(CAJLE)年次大会プレ大会
グローバルにつながるオンライン日本語教育シリーズ第9弾合同イベント

World Japanese: Voices From Around the Globe: What Can We Learn From the Diverse Japanese Language Users' Various Linguistic, Cultural and Social Experiences?

This workshop provides an opportunity to 1) understand diversity within Japanese language users, and 2) raise our awareness to provide better teaching practices through listening to various Japanese language users. Japanese language educators, parents who raise their children in Japanese, and researchers are encouraged to participate to share their opinions and exchange ideas of how we can apply the "voices" of Japanese language users to our everyday practices in the context of each participant. Breakout rooms will be set up for discussion in smaller groups! This workshop will use the data from the project (<https://sekainonihongo.com/>) that was part of the Global Network for Japanese Education from 2016 to 2022. This is a joint project between the Canadian Association of Japanese Language Education and Association of Japanese Language Teachers in Europe.

みんなの声

Wednesday, August 3, 2022

10 am - 12 noon (EDT)
11 pm - 1 am (Japan)

This workshop is open to public
(registration required).

Registration
Deadline: Fri, July 29

* Registration will be closed
when reached to 250.

Register
Here: bit.ly/3NRtFIk

Hisako Hayashi holds a Ph.D in the Department of Curriculum Theory and Implementation in Education at Simon Fraser University. Her research interests include multilingual and plurilingual students' academic, transnational and sociocultural identity construction, Japanese language education (curriculum, instruction, and pedagogy), heritage language education, and qualitative research. She has been teaching Japanese for 25 years to primary school children, immigrants, and university students in Australia, Japan, and Canada. She currently teaches Japanese at Carleton University. She is also busy raising two children speaking Japanese in Canada.

Questions? : cajle.event@gmail.com

セカイの日本語